Report on "Two-day Teachers' Training Program"

A two-day Teachers' Training Program was held on 15th and 16th March, 2023 at Ajmal Modern Residential School in Bhelowguri, Hojai, Assam. The training program was organized by IQAC, Nazir Ajmal Memorial College of Education, Hojai with the aim of providing Elementary-level teachers with the necessary knowledge and skills to improve their teaching practices. The program covered a range of topics, including effective classroom management strategies, child development, assessing student learning, differentiating instruction for diverse learners, and fostering collaboration and professional growth among teachers. The training sessions were conducted by Dr. Ashis Saha, Dr. Shahinoor Alam & Halima Abdul Matin who shared their expertise and practical insights with the participants. The program was attended by all teachers from both schools Ajmal Adarsha Jatiya Vidyalaya, Akashiganga and Ajmal Modern Residential School, Bhelowguri. The sessions were highly interactive, with a focus on participatory learning and practical application of the concepts discussed. The Resource persons were encouraged to share their own experiences and perspectives, and to work collaboratively with one another. At the end of the training program, the Resource persons reported feeling more confident and equipped to manage their classrooms effectively and to employ appropriate teaching strategies. They also expressed a desire for more opportunities for collaboration and professional growth in the future. The objectives of the program were:

- To provide teachers with knowledge and skills necessary for effective classroom management and teaching strategies:
- To enhance teachers' understanding of child development
- To improve teachers' skills in assessing student learning
- To foster teachers' abilities to differentiate instruction for diverse learners.
- To encourage collaboration and professional growth among teachers

The two-day Teachers' Training Program was successful in achieving its objectives. The program helped teachers to understand effective classroom management strategies, which they can implement in their own classrooms. Teachers were also introduced to a range of teaching strategies, including cooperative learning, inquiry-based learning, and project-based learning, which they can use to promote active engagement and deep learning among their students. The program enhanced teachers' understanding of child development, which is important for them to tailor their teaching to the developmental needs of their students. Teachers were also introduced to a range of assessment techniques, which can help them to better assess student learning and tailor their teaching accordingly. The program fostered teachers' abilities to differentiate instruction for diverse learners, which is important for them to create an inclusive learning environment. The program emphasized the importance of collaboration and professional growth among teachers, and the participants expressed a desire for more opportunities for collaboration and professional growth in the future.

Overall, the program was successful in providing primary-level teachers with the necessary knowledge and skills to improve their teaching practices. The program outcomes suggest that the program was effective in achieving its objectives and can have a positive impact on the quality of education provided to primary-level students in the region.
